1st International Conference on Digital Marketing
CALL FOR PAPERS
Date: 30-31 January 2016
Innovative Brand Building through Digital Marketing

NATURE AND SCOPE OF THE CONFERENCE

Since the birth of the modern economy, the death of once successful companies has been a fact of life. Limited by their ability to respond to disruptive change, only select few companies have managed to survive and remain dominant in their industries over the last 50 years. Today, the key detriment of whether any established business will survive is its ability to adapt to the changes brought on by digital. Despite the knowledge that innovation is urgent and essential, most businesses find themselves trapped by their responsibility to uphold existing business models and make next quarter’s numbers. Marketers, who have done a good job talking about and experimenting with embracing digital, often find that they are prevented from effecting change by structural impediments in the organization, limited budgets and uncertain results. The proposed conference is an attempt to deliberate on changes in the Brand building by the corporate brought through digital marketing and its interface with the consumer.
