INTRODUCTION

The financial health of a bank can be read easily from NPA figures reported in its balance sheet by its credit portfolio. Over the period of time NPAs, Bad loans and Frauds have been mounting due to lapses in compliances, Operational risk and corrupt practices. Amongst the various indicators of financial stability, Non-performing loans are a cause of concern since they directly exhibits the efficiency, asset quality and credit risk. Non-Performing Assets (NPAs) in banks and financial institutions are a matter of concern for profitability and efficiency of business. Utmost care and strategic insights are needed to ensure that credit remains healthy and realizable. To enhance asset quality, conceptual clarity with determined efforts is required at each stage of approval and monitoring. Credit risk management is key component of overall risk management initiatives of banks and financial institutions. Effective NPA Monitoring and Recovery Management program is designed to apprise the participants of the need, processes and outcome-based approach to effective NPA management.

Through conceptual clarity and interactive experience sharing the program will equip participants with requisite knowledge and confidence to deal with NPAs more effectively. The purpose of this MDP is to highlight the percolating Frauds in the banks leading to NPA s in Banks., taking corrective measures. This is substantiated with the need, role and amend the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016. Streamlining the compliances and the PCA guidelines have to be adhered to revive the ailing Banks and are highlighted. To revive the credit growth Investment books of the Banks have to be freed by securities receipts through Asset trading platform in near future and haircuts be allowed apart from stressed assets restructuring amidst changes and strict regulations.
